Head Lice

Head lice are the nuisance of schools everywhere; they've been around for years and are not going away soon. As a reminder, head lice are spread by head to head contact, so please make it a practice to watch for signs of itching or scratching heads, and inspect your child's hair regularly for signs of head lice.

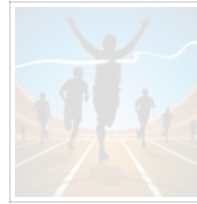

District policy (8450a) pertaining to head lice can be found under Administrative Policies on our district website's Parent/Student menu. Lice information is also available on the www.cdc.gov website and the <http://hssdsn.weebly.com/> click on the communicable disease tab and view steps for treating head lice.
